Objectives of Mount Union College

Mount Union College seeks to be an excellent liberal arts college in the Christian tradition. We believe the objective of excellence is imperative in the Judeo-Christian heritage and can best be achieved by maintaining high academic standards.

Mount Union College is a community of scholars and learners in which cooperation and concern are distinguishing characteristics. Responsible academic citizenship is required of all. We respect the dignity of each person, and each individual is expected to be a responsible and maturing member of the college community.

We seek to help each student develop his spiritual, mental, social, and physical powers fully by achieving the following goals:

Intellectual integrity, maturity of judgment, and the capacity to do independent work.

Moral and ethical standards of thought and behavior within a Christian framework.

An understanding of the significance and interrelatedness of the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, and the fine arts and of their relevance to our cultural heritage.

The ability to think critically and reason clearly, to evaluate objectively the ideas of others, and to use the resources of reason in solving abstract and practical problems.

The ability to read, write, and speak the English language effectively.

A knowledge and appreciation of music, literature, drama, and the visual arts, and the ability to participate creatively in at least one of these areas.

A knowledge of at least one foreign culture to be achieved through a study of its language and people.

The acceptance of personal and social responsibility involving consideration for the rights of others and the evaluation of persons as individuals rather than as members of groups.

The will and ability to maintain one's individuality and personal integrity in all endeavors.

Preparation for intelligent and effective participation in the life of the family, the community, the nation, and the world.

Preparation for an occupation or for further work in professional or graduate school through broad preliminary study.

The development of recreational and social skills of lasting value.

WELCOME TO THE MT. UNION FAMILY!

A college is: a society of scholars,
friends of learning,
understanding of others,
searching of selves,
and cooperation of
talents.
This is Mount Union . . .

Spring Term, 1970

Dear Underclassmen,

Today I am looking at Mount Union for the last time as one of her students. It is a long, last look which I take with mixed emotions of eagerness to leave and nostalgia for all the happy times spent here in the last four years.

When I came here as a freshman, you thought twice before you lit a cigarette in public, drank off campus with caution, and, for the most part, enjoyed tradition. Our big problems then seem petty in comparison to the ones we face today, and the pastimes of four years ago, contrasted, seem incredibly naive. But I also feel that my experiences here in four years have brought me to some significant realizations:

I once thought that June of 1970 would mean the end of learning -- I now know that it is the beginning, and that I have spent my years here learning how to learn.

I have discovered that to be wrong is often a more didactic position than being right, although infinitely more painful.

I have learned humility by joining in relationships with others whose intelligence dwarfs mine to tiny proportions by comparison, yet increases mine by association.

I have learned to look inside an individual to judge his worth; and I think I have earned the right to be judged this way by others.

To my great surprise, I find that I am already in the position of a conservative in comparison to many of you. I catch myself shaking my head and saying, "Why in the good old days, we..." You'll say it, too. And, like me, you'll give advice, as I am about to, without knowing if you really have the right to give it.

Mount Union is offering you four years in which to make yourself into the person you most want to be. Use them wisely -- be mature, look for the worth inside your peers and elders, don't be afraid to learn something -- reach out.

Good Luck,
A Senior
